

The following explanations should help to read your CP transcript.

The bar at the top of your credit point table is to give an overview about your achievements, with respect to the duration of membership (or doctoral studies). The (reference) Credit Points you should have earned after a certain time are computed according to: (reference Credit Points)= $0.0521(\text{months})^2 + 0.63(\text{months})$

- If the box with the total CPs and the aimed CPs is green (see the example above): you are better than the reference curve
- Yellow: between Green and Red
- Red: more than 5 Credit Points less than the Credit Points you are supposed to have according to the reference equation

Please note the reference curve is the minimum requirement!
